Why is OK to Board (OTB) needed?

Due to an expansion in fake visas to UAE, many Indian passengers were deported back in the past. In order to control the fake visa issuance and any fraudulent activities; airlines and sponsors double check the UAE Visa and Air tickets before departure and only after checking the visa authenticity, airlines update visa message in the respective PNR.

What is the time taken to get the OTB?

The Airline verifies the Dubai Visa and only then updates an Ok to Board message against the PNR. Airlines generally will take at least 24-48 working hours to update PNR after issuance of VISA.

What is the main purpose behind updating the OTB?

Your airline mandates you to update OTB message in the PNR primarily to confirm the legitimacy of your Dubai Visa as well as other relevant travel documents, thereby eliminating the chances of travellers making entry to the country with a forged visa and subsequently getting deported by the UAE immigration.

What if my OTB status is not updated?

In such circumstances, your airline has the complete right to disapprove your boarding. To resolve this issue at the earliest, don't delay to get in touch with our Dubai Visa Experts.

What if my Dubai Visa gets rejected?

The approval of the Dubai Visa is solely regulated by the government of the UAE and governed by their rules & regulations and the rejection of the Dubai visa application is the sole prerogative of the immigration authorities, therefore AL-MIRAAJ will not be held responsible in case of visa rejection or delay.

Is the Dubai Visa fee refundable if it has been rejected?

No, the Dubai Visa fee is non-refundable in all cases, including if the visa application is rejected.
